The most useful skill a teenager can learn today.

Nowadays, many young people want to start acquiring a new skill; however, they do not know what to start from and what will be more beneficial for their future. So what teenagers can start learning right from this day?

It can seem too obviously but English is one of the most basic and at the same time advantageous skills which people can have today. Not only does it give us new friends but also an access to the huge amount of information. In addition, it helps people in many fields. For example, I have started learning coding recently and due to my good knowledge of English I understand it quite quickly compared to the times when I was not good enough at English. That time I thought it was impossible!

In conclusion, statistics and my own experience show that English is a basic skill which everyone should have as it helps people in many fields and open many opportunities.
