IV. Writing.

C) I had never expected the school trip to end like this. It was 26th of May when our class had decided to go on a school trip to the forest. There was nothing serious we expected from the trip. We travelled to the forest by bus. When we arrived, and saw the forest, we were blessed with unbelievable, breathtaking beauty. A view so unattainable and precious, you could not take your eyes away. We were ready to receive nothing, but remarkable memories from this trip.

At the start we were walking, talking, messing around, by the night we swam in the lake, and then started a fire to get warm, we started eating and talking about some captivating stories from each other's lives, and then went to sleep. As I woke up, I've went through something unimaginable, I saw a wolf looking down at me. I was so frightened that even moving, blinking or saying anything seemed deathly. However, I've brought up the courage to make a sound to wake everybody else. My best friend Amelia immediately started screaming, as she saw the wolf. She started running away, and the animal ran after her. The situation seemed inevitable. We started running after her, but lost track. Then, when we finally found her, we saw Amelia crying holding a tree, and the wolf gone. We all started calming her down, while also trying to calm ourselves down comprehending what had just happened. Then we immediately left the forest that had left us shocked, frightened and amazed at the same time. This trip was a big shock, and a humongous lesson for all of us.
